Treading on the soil of Vietnam...

Vietnam, located in Southeast Asia, is a country comprising of 54 ethnic groups, with a population of 96 million and of which 88% are young people!

As the country opens to the world in the past 30 years, with its young and vibrant labor force, Vietnam excelled as a manufacturing hub and become a key manufacturing site to Western branded sportswear and other multi-national electronics companies. Aside from that, Vietnam is filled with wonderful natural scenery.

However, the economic growth and activities are mainly taken place in the lowlands, the highlands in contrast, are far less developed and here lays poverty which calls for attention. As we go on, His Field may walk with you and journey on to the villages and the hills, together experiencing another facet of Vietnam, rather than the buzz of city life, but another perspective of this land of rice of the 21st century.

A little story

Torrents of angry waves and water swept through the streets of a local village in Vietnam. Like a roaring beast that is completely out of control, the water tramples the delicate plantations, bumping violently into one house after another, along its tracks it leaves behind poor people with hopeless eyes weeping as they looked on their homes being destroyed, electricity and other food supplies cut off.

In face of tremendous natural destruction, Hanoi Mission Baptist Church (HMBC), boldly ventured into the disaster plagued area. Packing along food supplies with them they set on a bumpy and long journey into the village. But carried with them were not only the material supplies, but much, much more than that, it is the care that they carried along for these afflicted people.

Friends from HMBC joyously proclaimed the love from city dwellers as they distributed the instant noodles and packaged food to those who received the gift with pleasant surprise, a gift that warms the heart and with a message that enlightens the soul.

About His Field Foundation

Greetings from His Field! This short story embodies the spirit of His Field, a charity determined to reach out and provide relief to the needy.

Our beginning traces back almost a decade ago when a number of Christians travelled to Vietnam to visit the rural villages. Witnessing the needs of villagers prompted us to respond to these vulnerable people, who cried out as sudden pangs to their hearts grip them and to those who cried out as they suffered from severe poverty.

The idea of creating a bigger impact starts to develop as we grow increasingly determined to converge our care. Therefore, His Field Foundation is established and we shall partner with local governments and charities to impart our warming affections to those in need.

His Field wishes to spread our love through actions, to beautify the village livelihoods by working on the following areas:

- Improving sanitation and health by rebuilding toilets with enhanced hygiene
- Providing natural disaster relief through provisioning of critical supplies
- Supporting young and vibrant students for academic studies
- Nurturing young generations by providing sporting opportunities and building harmonious relationships

Keeping in touch

If you wish to find out more, please visit our website at www.hisfield.org or contact us at info@hisfield.org.

We look forward to the future on how we may join hands together to advance the education in those villages and promote the well-being of those in need. May we open our ears to listen to their stories, open our hearts to become their companions!
