

Vietnam is hit hard by the recent global pandemic. The country registered about 10,000 new confirmed cases in December 2021 and in a matter of two months, the number was multiplied by 8 folds, reaching about 80,000 cases per day by February 2022.

Due to the wide spread of the virus, demand for medication increased and with supply being limited, an acute shortage is being felt across the country, with only some key cities like Hanoi and Ho Chi Minh serving as the exception, where residents can purchase needed medicine.

PEACE

In light of the medical shortage in the village area of Vietnam and the economic needs, His Field Foundation is raising funds for medication procurement.
